The State Department ordered all American diplomats to come home from Ciudad Trujillo and told the Trujillo government to recall its diplomatic mission from Washington.

A formal announcement of the action by the State Department said "it is expected" that U.S. consular work in the Dominican Republic will be continued. Such an arrangement would be designed to serve American businessmen and tourists in the Caribbean island country.

The Organization of American States, meeting in San Jose, Costa Rica, voted political and economic sanctions against the Dominican Republic last Saturday. American officials said the condemnatory action should result in government in the land which Generalissimo Rafael Leonidas Trujillo Molina has ruled for many years.

can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his

We pride ourselves on being a forward-looking people. We foresee a time in which life will be happier, healthier, richer, and more productive. We all hope that the world in which our children will live out their lives will be a wisdom to look back-if only to recall some of the words that were said long ago by men who helped make this nation. For instance, there is this: "I place economy among the first and most important virtues, and the public debt as the greatest of dangers to be feared. To preserve our independence, we must not let our rulers load us with perpet-

"We must make our choice between economy and liberty, or profusion and servitude. If we run into such debts, we must be taxed in our meat and drink, in our necessities and in our comforts, in our labors and in our amuse-

"If we can prevent the government from wasting the labors of the people under the pretense of caring for them, they will be happy.

That was said by Thomas Jefferson, whose contribution to the American system of government was, perhaps, greater than that of any other single man. The language is archaic, but the principle is crystal clear. We have gone a grimly long distance in violating his doctrine. The question is whether we shall have the resolution, the strength, and the wisdom to change our national way before it is too late.

mise of labor leaders to de- his rights and make him a second class

The fact that the ballot is secret in the United States and only the voter himself actually knows he votes when he goes behind the curtain makes it impossible to control the labor vote or any other vote, for that matter, since voting is an individual privilege.

The labor leader is not the only one who is confronted with this dilemma. In fact, a husband can't be sure his own wife will agree with him on the choice of a candidate and very often she goes her own way.

In America, elections are truly free and that is the way they must be kept. The individual who votes against the dictates of his conscience, no matter what the reason, is not worthy of American citizenship, be he Republican or Democrat or what his choice may be for the Presidency or any other office.

What I did see was setting for a few seconds, then fascinating enough, and I didn't begin to see everything increase to the higher speed in our store offers, believe me.

One of my first stops was the gift department on the sides of the pyrex mixing our Main Floor. I had been looking over glass from bowl during mixing, except when Czechoslovakia and pottery from Greece, when I was the recipe says to do so or when suddenly attracted to something round and something the ingredients spread or splash square which looked somewhat like honey combs. "What are these?" I wanted to know.

"Bamboo hot pads," Beatrice Brink answered. "Or dling shortening, for scraping, you can use them under flower pots," Hannah Shupp added. These are 59c. But Bea, thinking perhaps that I was a customer instead of a questioner, picked up a related item priced at 19c. "This," she said, "is a pickle or olive fork with a bamboo handle. But they're also grand for corn if you buy them in pairs. And these" . . . she picked up a piece with matching bamboo handle, "are butter spreaders. They make very nice sets for corn, and the three pieces per diner would cost just 57c." These, of course, are from Japan. As I wandered on I couldn't help wondering what these gadgets are used for in Japan. Maybe they do, but I somehow can't picture a Japanese eating corn on the cob, unless he had been rather thoroughly Westernized. I was reminded of Bobby Westbrook's column in which she said she knows countless things about Italy she would never have known if she had not visited there . . . no travel book had prepared her for the "embroidery hoops" that weight the round table covers in open air cafes, for instance. Well, I've read some wonderful books about Japan . . . but none ever mentioned corn on

Down the aisle I was reminded that it was aproaching lunch time when I saw an opened tin of those attractive, yummy-crisp Danish cookies, a very excellent buy at only 1.59. Upstairs in Donna Sandt's office, I noticed a rather large cardboard duplicate of the Eiffel Tower. Right away I thought about the world's smartest women . . Maxim's . . . the Follies Bergiere with feather-garbed girls in bird cages swinging from the ceiling . . . and chestnut trees in bloom. I thought of the music from "Can Can," and began humming, "I love Paris in the Springtime, I love Paris in the Fall—." This tower was very obviously the property of our Travel Bureau, being boldly stamped with the insignia of Air France.

A few steps from Donna's office, is our domestics department. There I found actual prints of Paris on cork-backed place mats. There are four Utrillo reproductions that look so real one could thumb-tack them to the wall as pictures. Or, if one chose to be a bit more elaborate, Walter Logan could easily apply a plain wooden molding. The pictures are rimmed in white, giving the impression of a matting, and they could be wiped clean in a whisk. As a matter of fact, I'd much prefer them on the wall to having them beneath-and hidden by-a plate! These are 1.00 each.

As souvenirs of New York City, I found other mats resembling shiny celluloid showing Rockefeller Center, the Plaza and other familiar, much-loved sites.

Our Policy-To Bring You Pool Supplies at a 10% Savings and All Sales on a Cash and Carry Basis

We are confident that you will be pleased with this policy which will enable you to operate your pool with quality products at the lowest possible prices. How can we bring you these 10% savings? CASH AND CARRY - the good old fashioned way.

Since the swimming pool business is of a seasonal nature, and because the majority of purchases are made during approximately a four month period, we fell that this policy will not inconvenience you. Also, the 10% savings which we are passing on to you, and which we are sure you will welcome, represents our direct saving in bookkeeping and delivery costs.

All sales will be on a 10% DISCOUNT and CASH AND CARRY BASIS. If the item is too large to be carried away in your car, we will be happy to deliver it for you.

Duren's Eyesight Makes Signals A Problem

Ryne Duren, the New York Yankees fireballer with the weak eyesight, is known for his inability to see home plate. If Duren has a tough time focusing on the plate, which is 17 inches wide across the front, how is he able to see the finger signs flashed by the Yankee catchers? An article written by Joe Garagiola for the 1957 Baseball Digest, may have the answer.

with Duke Maas for three innings of shutout relief after the Indians When Garagiola, who is a telecaster now, caught for the had taken a 6-3 lead in the eighth. Chicago Cubs, Bob Rush had trouble seeing the finger signs. So Garagiola and Rush developed a series of signs that would be Cleveland 000 113 010 00-6 13 0 much easier to see than the flashing fingers.

New York 011 000 130 01-7 14 0 If Garagiola had his feet together before squatting to supposedly give signals, he wanted Rush to throw a fast ball. If his Perry, Klippstein (8), Locke (8) and Romano; Turley, Coates (7), feet were apart, it was the sign for a curve. And if Garagiola Maas (9), Arroyo (11) and How- dropped down without coming to a set position, it was the changeard, W - Arroyo (2-0). L-Locke up sign.

> Once Garagiola was in his squatting position, he still flashed finger signs but only to throw off the opposition. Could be that Duren gets his signs in the same manner.

Catcher's Trips Used For Sign Change

Most of the time the trip is to change signals so the base runners won't be able to tip the batter to the pitch. But the Pittsburgh ..000 010 000-1 4 1 Ernie Banks led off the second major leaguers even have signals that are used to change signals. Should the catcher pull on the side of his mask with his bare hand, with a runner on second base, the first
